LIVESTOCK EXHIBITORS OBLIGATIONS

Only fit and healthy animals should be transported to the show. Any clinical signs of disease, however mild, detected on farm must result in the identified animals remaining at home and under no circumstances be brought to the showground. If an animal displays any signs or symptoms of illness once at the showground, the organisers must be alerted immediately. All animals brought to the showground must be accompanied by the relevant paperwork.

Thank you for your support in helping to keep all livestock and visitors healthy and happy.
